AHRC’s Theory of Change

Arts and humanities research has immense potential to shape how we think and live our lives.

Arts and humanities research is vital for government, business and society in tackling today’s challenges.

AHRC is uniquely placed to convene ideas and people.

Creating a healthy society, prosperous economies, open civil discourse, a rich cultural landscape, and a thriving environment for ideas.